Corona Crisis: - We are here for you!

Dear customers,

the current developments demand a lot from us all. For many it is now a matter of reorganizing, devising alternatives. For example, in communication with business partners and in the exchange of information.

At this point we are reliably available to you as a software provider for PC host communication solutions.

Our office remains accessible for you!

Health is our top priority, too. We take care of each other and provide resources to help employees change the way they work, including flexible schedules and home offices.

Even if the current situation is exceptional, we are a first-class team and have a loyal customer community. We will master the crisis together with you. We look forward to continuing to support you during our office hours with our extensive consulting and support services.

We wish you all the best and stay healthy.

Best regards,
your

Gudrun Groll
sales manager
